

Senator J. W. Fulbright backed President Truman against General MacArthur yesterday in a statement which contained the most ringing sentence of the year. Of the President Senator Fulbright said:

"He often has thought me wrong and unspeakable, while I have sometimes thought him wrong and incomprehensible."

And then Fulbright added: "But I have a real sympathy for him in the awful responsibility which he alone must carry."

And the same cloak of language which Arkansas' gifted junior senator uses to cover the quarrels between himself and the White House might also fit the Truman-MacArthur issue—although a bit mug around the bulging shoulders of that historic clash.

There is no right or wrong road that we are sure of. All we know is, only one voice at a time can speak for foreign policy—right or wrong. On that singleness of purpose our country, our fortunes, our homes, and our very lives depend. But it hasn't escaped Europe's notice that here in America we practice what we preach in democracy—for our greatest soldier and the president of our country argue publicly while 150 million fellow citizens hear the debate and ponder the impendable future.

Speaking of democracy, our faith in the proverb that there is safety in numbers has been severely shaken by recent experience with the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Like most of our institutions the RFC has been run since the war by a committee, the theory being that it is harder to corrupt five men than one, and five will strike a fair average where one or two of 'em may be incompetent. But the RFC went sour just the same—and we are reverting to one-man rule.

New boss of the RFC will be W. Stuart Symington. Which reminds you that its best performance also was under virtually one-man management, the man being Jesse Jones.

One dependable operator works better than a committee in money matters, whether private or public. What destroyed the five-man committee principle was the pressure of thousands of other committees in government. Under those circumstances a single hard-headed gentleman is more apt to weather the fire.

Czechoslovakia has in jail an American foreign correspondent, William Oatis, stationed at the Prague by the Associated Press. Oatis disappeared the other night—and yesterday the Iron Curtain boys admitted that they had grabbed him.

The charges? Don't laugh, but Russia's stooges allege three counts:

"Activities hostile to the state. Gathering and sending out information the Czechs consider secret. Spreading malicious information."

In our country a man can talk out loud to our president—in the Communist countries you can't even write for a newspaper.

I was glad to read one item yesterday—our South Korean allies had slaughtered 187 civilians in a village suspected of collaborating with guerrillas, and yesterday three cabinet ministers in the South Korean government resigned in protest.

The United States should get to the bottom of such atrocities. They only make a tough job still harder in the court of world opinion. For similar action by the Germans we brought high people to trial after World War II, executed some, sent others to prison.

Production 'Miracles' Can Double

New York, April 27 — (AP) — Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson says the production "miracles" of World War II can now be doubled and that in three years America's industrial machine can achieve peace.

If war is averted, he says, the increased productive capacity can be used for a better standard of living.

Warning that inflation could ruin the defense program, Wilson calls for "toil and sweat" to avert "blood and tears."

He says the U. S. production machinery is now running so fast that any aggressor — specifically "a certain mustached gentleman from Moscow" — would be "crazy" to "argue" with this nation after 1953.

Wilson gave this outlook last night in an address at a dinner of the bureau of advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers association. The dinner, at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, was the concluding event of the annual newspaper week here.

Wilson said the nation is not doing as well in controlling inflation as it is in increasing defense production.

He urged Americans to do their jobs to the best of their ability, be content with "reasonable" profits and wages, understand and accept a need for higher taxes, refrain from hoarding, buy only the things they need and shun black markets.

Wilson called for higher taxes to help halt the "cancerous growth" of inflation, which he said "will prove fatal unless it is quickly cut out."

The address was greeted with frequent applause from the audience of 2,000, including about 1,200 members of the American Newspaper Publishers association. Completed registration figures for the three-day newspaper publishers' convention showed that 1,245 newspaper publishers, executives attended. This figure set a record. The number last year was 1,215.

Budget for Agencies Cut 10 Per Cent

Washington, April 27 — (AP) — The 1952 budget of 27 federal agencies was slashed 10 per cent 655,000 — today by the house appropriations committee.

The committee recommended that the house give the agencies $6,171,188,440 for the fiscal year starting next July. President Truman had asked $6,837,677,465; the same agencies got $11,932,720,332 for the present year.

The funds are for the so-called "independent offices" whose finances are lumped in a single bill. Almost all of them were cut, including the atomic energy commission and the veterans' administration.

The committee's action is subject to alteration by the house when it considers the bill next week.

The cut was the largest on any of four regular departmental bills sent to the house floor this year.

In addition to the actual money slash, the committee claimed further savings of $80,000,000 through cancellation of authority previously given some of the agencies to enter into contracts which would have required future appropriations.

The contract authority cancelled included $10,500,000 for loans to develop prefabricated housing and $13,100,000 for public works advance planning. Another $57,300,000 saving was claimed because the committee limited to 50,000 the number of public housing units to be started next year with government financing.

The cut of $5,760,000,000 from current year appropriations as compared to fiscal 1951 was due largely to omission from the 1952 budget of requests for large sums for strategic and critical materials and to a tapering off in some veterans' benefit programs.

The two largest beneficiaries of the bill are the atomic energy commission and the veterans' administration.

For the AEC, the committee allotted $1,140,017,750, a cut of $69,982,250 mostly in construction programs. The committee directed the AEC to use "care and simplicity" in designing its new buildings and to eat out the fancy trimmings.

For the veterans' administration, the allotment was $3,971,944,145 budget cut of $483,378,855. Heavy reductions were in funds for readjustment benefits and pensions, due mainly to a tapering off in the education program for vets.

Appeasement in Orient Out, Taft Asserts

Washington, April 27 — (AP) — Senator Taft, (Ohio) said today he and other Republicans don't want to tell military leaders how to run the Korean war but do want to prevent "appeasement" of Red China.

Taft, who told the senate yesterday the joint chiefs of staff are under the administration's thumb, said in an interview he and others of like views don't believe congress should try to enforce the military strategy proposed by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

"I'm interested in stopping any appeasement of the Chinese Communists," the Ohio senator declared. "I don't believe congress can tell the joint chiefs of staff how to run the war — that they should bomb Manchurian bases, for instance."

"But I do think congress can tell the administration what it ought not to do in the way of appeasing the Chinese Communists," the Ohio senator, who heads his party's policy committee, expressed his views on the objectives of a forthcoming investigation into President Truman's firing of MacArthur.

The senate armed services and foreign relations committees will begin next Thursday, with testimony from MacArthur, an investigation of the policy differences which led Mr. Truman to fire the five-star general as Pacific commander.

Briefly, President Truman wants to confine the war to Korea if possible but MacArthur wants to launch a broader effort against the Chinese Communists, including a sea blockade and destruction of Red Chinese bases in Manchuria.

MacArthur's scheduled appearance before the two committees continued to be a subject of controversy.

Senator Russell D-Ga., who will serve as chairman of the two groups, fought for closed hearings, with testimony from which military secrets had been blue-penciled to be made public later.

Russell told a reporter that if MacArthur wants to read a prepared statement in public, the privilege will be granted to the general. The Georgia senator said, however, that he wants questions asked behind closed doors.

Senator Knowland R-Calif., another services member, said that system won't do at all.

"For five years there has been too much discussion in private of policies which should not have been secret at all," he said. "Unless the public gets the maximum amount of information, this country is going to be divided worse than it is now."

Senator Lyndon Johnson D-Tex., another armed services member, said he doesn't think administration Democrats will object to "any stump speeches the Republicans want to make" in the course of the investigation.

Packers Blame Controls for Meat Shortages

By The Associated Press

Meat shortages are springing up in many areas throughout the country, and most packers are putting the blame on "part-way" price controls.

The packers queried in an Associated Press survey largely blamed the sporadic but ominous shortages on the fact that live stock prices were allowed to rise after the government-ordered price freeze and ceiling on meat. They pointed out, however, that the ceiling varies.

For instance, they said, small processors with higher ceilings have been able to buy away animals from the big packers. Such a development had nudged meat supplies out of normal channels in many areas and has forced retailers to get their meat from other sources and usually at higher prices.

Meat industry spokesmen claimed that's how black markets develop. Housewives have complained that they can get varied meat cuts only from high-priced specialty shops, leading to the bitter phrase:

"There's plenty of meat — if YOU can pay enough."

Some slaughterers and packers, admittedly caught in the ceiling squeeze, have been forced to curtail or stop operations. Many buy just enough to keep their plants running, often at a loss. Others have given workers early vacations.

Low-priced meat has ended to disappear from many competitive stores which are required to abide by low retail ceilings.

Also feeling the bulk low-price meat shortage in many areas are hospitals and other institutions. Government price regulations stipulate such institutions should get priority, but many suppliers have stopped offering them at all.

An AP survey of large dealers in 15 cities revealed:

Beef and veal supplies below normal to very light in New York, Los Angeles, New Orleans, Charlotte, N. C., Chicago, Richmond, Boston, New Haven, Conn., and Baltimore.

Adequate supplies except lamb) were reported in Detroit, Atlanta, San Francisco, St. Louis, Kansas City and Dallas.

Lamb is scarce almost everywhere — partly a seasonal condition before spring lambs are sent to market.

Pork and poultry appear to be in normal supply everywhere.

In Washington, Secretary of Agriculture Brannan had no comment on the situation. But meat specialists in the nation's capital said the scarcities reflect a broad national demand for meat in excess of production.

In Omaha, Neb., Wesley Hardenberg, president of the American Meat Institute, told the city's chamber of commerce that "there are pretty good indications that the black market already is under way."

Mosquito Control Campaign Starts Here May 1

Malaria control house spraying will begin in Hempstead county on Tuesday, May 1st. Otis Walden will be in charge of the spraying crew.

Jolen Goodwin, local supervisor of the health department's Vector Control Office announced today that all of the vehicles and equipment and a supply of DDT and Chloridan for this year's fight against the malaria mosquitoes have been received during the past two weeks.

The charge for house spraying this year is unchanged — $2.00 for complete treatment of a house. Outbuildings will be sprayed for a small additional fee if the householder wishes.

The area that is to be sprayed will be the same as last year, (the southwest part) only the area south of Highway 27 and Highway 73 will be sprayed. This is the area considered to be the malarious section of the county.

Willoughby Also Seeks Retirement

Tokyo, April 27 — (AP) — Maj. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby, a MacArthur man from the Bataan and Corregidor days, has asked for army retirement so he can rejoin General MacArthur.

He is the second of two-star general rank to follow MacArthur in the five-star controversy with the White House.

"I expect to join him and offer what modest services I can render," Willoughby said today.

MacArthur in Chicago last night made his second challenging policy speech on the Far East since he was fired April 10 by President Truman. He made the first before congress last week.

With him was Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney who asked to be relieved of army duty soon after MacArthur was ousted.

Whitney, another of MacArthur's high-level Bataan buddies, had been head of the occupation command's government section in Japan and secretary of the Allied command directing the Korean fighting.

Willoughby served as intelligence chief and assistant chief of staff under MacArthur in Japan and continued after the supreme command passed to Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway.

The first intimation that Willoughby was leaving Tokyo came in a Washington dispatch. It quoted the defense department that the 69-year-old, German-born officer, a husky six-footer, had been ordered to report to Letterman Army hospital in San Francisco—apparently with a "routine" physical checkup — with the date of departure to be fixed by Ridgway.

Paisley Pre-School Clinic Scheduled for Wednesday

The Paisley Parent Teachers Association will sponsor a pre-school clinic for all children living north of the Missouri Pacific bridge way including children who ride buses and will attend Paisley school next year.

The clinic will be held Wednesday, May 2, starting at 10 a. m. in the school lunchroom, with Dr. J. W. Branch and Dr. A. L. Hardage donating their services.

The best thing parents can do for their children is to send them to school in the best possible physical condition in order that they may take full advantage of opportunities offered in public schools.

This program is designed to correct minor conditions before a student entered school and has the full cooperation of Superintendent James H. Jodie, the teachers and parents.

Appointments should be made for free vaccinations and shots for whooping cough and diphtheria will be given.

Clinics for Brookwood and Garfield will be held at a later date. Parents are urged to give their wholehearted support to this clinic.

Allies Retreat Along Entire Korean Front

Tokyo, April 27 — (AP) — United Nations troops fell back on both ends of the 600-mile Korean front today.

In the west they rolled back through Uijongbu, 11 miles north of Seoul.

In the east they abandoned Yanggu and pulled back below the 38th parallel. This was the last Allied hold in Red Korea on the active fighting front.

In both withdrawals U. N. forces broke contact with Reds. The Allies also broke contact south of Hwachon reservoir, and withdrew as rapidly a vast no-man's land was created on this east-central sector.

Little contact was reported all along the front. But U. N. troops beat back attacks in the center aimed at roads leading to Seoul. And in the extreme west, Allied forces fought a stubborn delaying action 14 miles northwest of Seoul.

On the northern approaches the Chinese were about 10 miles from the old South Korean capital.

But Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, U. S. Eighth Army commander, expressed confidence they could be halted north of the Han river.

The Han borders Seoul on the south.

However, the general did not mention the war shattered city in his statement.

"We are withdrawing in order," Van Fleet said on an unheeded frontline tour. "We are keeping a tight rein on the enemy while enduring only minimum losses."

As the Reds neared Seoul, civilians streamed out of the city to the south. A South Korean government spokesman said 200,000 had fled already across the Han. Another 200,000 were expected to follow, leaving about 100,000 in the city which has lost military significance to either side.

It was a familiar sight. Communist troops twice have occupied and twice abandoned Seoul. Friday they drove on it for the third time.

The force of their drive appeared to be weakening. An Army headquarters said. Friday it reported U. N. troops in their path fought a stubborn delaying action.

Five Red divisions hammered toward the South Korean capital from the north. Some were only 11 miles away, near Uijongbu.

Others were closer on the Mun-san-Seoul road to the west.

Others Allies fighting a slow withdrawal in the central and eastern sectors battled in the mud to deny another 100,000 Reds the eastern highway to Seoul. Big Hwachon reservoir was abandoned. But U. N. troops still had a foothold north of Paroll 38 on the eastern end of the 100-mile front.

In some sectors the Reds had gained 30 miles since they launched their spring offensive Sunday. But they paid a terrific price in lives for each mile gained. The U. N. command estimated 85,000 Reds were killed in four and a half days.

"They're spending people like we spend ammunition," one officer said.

A single American artillery division in the west fired more than 30,000 rounds — about $1,000,000 worth — in two days.

Allied losses were described as negligible. But there were losses. The U. N. withdrawal was a series of heroic fights.

Churchill Halts U. S. Visit Amid Cabinet Crisis

London, April 27 — (AP) — Winston Churchill today cancelled plans to speak at the University of Pennsylvania on May 1, because of the British political crisis.

He said, however, that he would forward "keenly" to a visit to Philadelphia later.

Churchill's cancellation was disclosed in a letter to Harold Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania, which was made public today.

Churchill said he was postponing his trip because "events have developed since the plans were made which have made it impossible for me to go."

"I deeply appreciate the invitation with which you honored me to speak at the bicentenary of the University of Pennsylvania library on May 8," Churchill's letter Stassen said.

"Since your arrangements were made, events have happened which make it difficult for me to fulfill the engagement now."

"I hope therefore that you will allow me to postpone for a while my visit to Philadelphia, to which I look forward keenly."

Stassen's reply said: "We are sure that your visit will be a most valuable one to the University of Pennsylvania."

Stassen said he was sure that Churchill's visit would be a most valuable one to the University of Pennsylvania.

Only Two Bodies Are Missing

Kay West, Fla., April 27—(AP)—Investigators studied eye-witness accounts of Wednesday's collision between a Cuban airliner and a twin-engine navy plane today while rescue workers searched for the last two missing bodies.

Navy divers have recovered the bodies of all 30 persons aboard the Cuban airline's DC-4, which plunged into 30 feet of water. Salvage crews hoisted up the wreckage of the navy plane but did not find the two missing crewmen. Bodies of the other two crew members had floated to the surface.

Lt. E. J. L. Memmetier, a French naval aviator training here, told a navy court of inquiry that he saw the airliner "overrun" the navy plane. Seaman M. C. Witherington of Goldsboro, N. C., who also witnessed the accident, said neither plane "took evasive action" before they rammed together.

Capt. R. S. Quackenbush Jr., naval air station commander in charge of the investigation, said the navy crew had been practicing blind flying, but there was no way of knowing whether the pilot was masked at the time of the collision. Anyway, he said, another pilot would have had clear observation.

The civil aeronautics board also is investigating the mishap, which took place about nighttime when visibility was unlimited.

Mississippi Majorette Is Lion Winner

El Dorado. — Until recently, vivacious Patricia Foy has been known to citizens of Clarksdale, Miss., as a high-stepping majorette of the Clarksdale High School band. Now, however, the pretty 17-year-old girl has a new distinction. She is the winner of a $1,000, one-year college scholarship offered by Lion Oil Company of El Dorado in its Sixth Scholarship Contest for Southern high school students.

Miss Foy won the scholarship with an essay on "How to Keep America Strong." Her victory is all the more of a tribute to her talents in that she won second prize in the First Lion Oil Contest just five months ago — a contest judged by an entirely different panel of Southern educators. Miss Foy's teacher of English, Miss Patsy Thrash, receives a $100 cash award for sponsoring the first prize winning essay.

Miss Foy is now eligible for the Lion Oil Grand Prize Scholarship, to be awarded to one of the six winners of one-year scholarships in the monthly essay contests just concluded by Lion Oil Company. The Grand Prize is an additional $3,000, three-year scholarship to be awarded this May. In addition to Miss Foy, scholarship winners now eligible for the Grand Prize include Ann Johnson, Memphis, Tenn.; Nancy Lee Magid, Nashville, Tenn.; Joyce Crump, Decatur, Ala.; Norma Sue Roop, Fort Smith, Ark.; and Elizabeth McKnight, Nashville, Tenn. The teacher who sponsored the Grand Prize essay will receive an additional award of $300.

Other winners in the Sixth Contest, last of the current series, include Emily Bryden Morrow, 17-year-old senior in David Lipscomb High School, Nashville, Tenn., who won second prize of $500; and Sylvia Rousseau, 15, a sophomore in Devitt High School, Fayetteville, Ark., who won third prize of $350. Mr. T. Roy Porter, Miss Morrow's English teacher, won $100 for sponsoring the second prize essay, while Miss Ethel Gates Miller, Miss Rousseau's English teacher, won $50 for sponsoring the third prize essay.

DOROTHY DIX

Inconsiderate Beau

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have been going with a young man for almost a year. Am very much in love with him and he tells me he adores me, but he treats me in such a casual and inconsiderate way that I do not know what to think of it. He breaks engagements without any real excuse. Never tells me his appointments. Never tells me when he is going to be late, although he has a phone on his desk. He treats his own family the same way and tells me they don't mind, and that I am making a mountain out of a mole hill. My parents urge me to give him up, saying that if he shows so little consideration now, what will he do after we are married? What do you think?

I, D. J. M.

Answer: I think your young man is giving you a sample of the way he will treat his wife, and that you should be very sure that you like it before you undertake a life with him. Don't delude yourself with the false belief that marriage will work some sort of miracle in his disposition that will change him from a callously indifferent and selfish man to one who will be considerate and thoughtful of his wife.

He Won't Change

Nothing of the kind is going to happen. Marriage doesn't change a man. It only makes him more so and intensifies his characteristics. If a man is sensitive, understanding and chivalrous to his sweetheart, he will be tender and protective to his wife. He will be thoughtful of her in little matters and try to save her from all the petty annoyances and cares that he can.

But if a man puts his own comfort and convenience first and his sweetheart's last, if he won't put himself out to save her annoyance; if he breaks an engagement because he does not happen to feel like keeping it; if he won't even take the trouble to telephone to save her anxious waiting when he has to be late in keeping an appointment, and if he thinks all little courtesies and attentions are nonsense, you may be sure that after marriage he will make one of the neglected husbands who treat their wives as if they were pieces of household furniture, good only to make them comfortable.

Dear Miss Dix: I am very shy and worry about myself too much. My friends say a job is the thing for me but I just can't get one. Another thing I stay at home all the time. I just don't want to go anywhere. Everyone says I am nervous and would have lots of friends if I would only get out. My voice has a nasal sound and I have worried myself to death about it. What can I do about it? JUNE.

Answer: You certainly do worry about yourself too much. If you live near a Y. W. C. A., a school, or any other organization that gives a course in speech, that would be the best way to overcome your nasal tone and would probably clear up a lot of your self-consciousness.

You must get yourself out of the house as your first big step in conquering your shyness. You must do that yourself, no one can push you out. Get among your friends, try a little harder to find a job, or take a course in something that will give you confidence. It doesn't matter what — sewing, interior decoration, current history or literature — if it will get you among people and add a skill to your qualifications for a job.

Dear Miss Dix: Can you explain why people give big parties to the boys who are about to enter the army, and then, when they go to the railroad station to see them off, they weep over them? I like mothers, wives and girl friends have to be forcibly removed and have their arms pried from around the boys' necks as the train starts? I sent a boy, one of the finest in the war, but I sent him out remembering me as smiling. I cried plenty when I sent him, but I didn't do it when he could see. A LOVING MOTHER

Answer: Right you are, Mother. It is the woman like you who send their sons away to do their duty with a smile and a cheery word, who have raised the lads who are now heroes on the battle front today.

A mother can't think the boys, whose mothers can't think by their own and makes it easier for them to do their duty, do not know what World War is all about. They know that their very own is torn with anguish and her heart overflowing with love that she will not shed when they can see, but they think that if "Mother can take it they can." And they do.

The Enforcer Stars Bogart at Rialto

"The Enforcer," a real life drama starring Humphrey Bogart in the title role, comes to the Rialto screen on Sunday.

The United States Pictures Production, distributed by Warner Bros., is based on an actual series of crimes committed by a band of paid killers operating a nationwide network of death. How a fearless assistant district attorney, aided by a handful of strong-armed cops, traps the leaders, hitherto immune from the law through a series of high tip tips, forms the basis of what has been termed, in advance, one of the best in recent years.

In emphasizing accuracy throughout the entire production, Director Bretaigne Lord used outdoor location shots around the city of Los Angeles, covering the residential and shopping districts, the ominous underworld section and other outlying neighborhoods.

With Bogart taking up the side of the law after many wrongdoer roles, the others in the film were also selected apparently with an eye toward realism. Zero Mostel, a New York night club comic but heralded as one of the fine acting talents in Hollywood, plays a surviving hoodlum, instrumental in rounding up the mobsters. Ted de Corsia, who played as the "heavy" in "Three Secrets," and Everett Sloane, the sensitive Army doctor in "The Man," portray the murder syndicate's hatched man and gang chief, respectively.

Carrying the feminine appeal is lovely Patricia Joiner of California, a newcomer said to bear watching in did Gloria DeHaven, another film star native who made good on the glamor screen. It is Miss Joiner who is the target for the murder ring until law enforcement officer Bogart arrives on the scene.

"The Enforcer" was written by Martin Rackin.

If a man is sensitive, understanding and chivalrous to his sweetheart, he will be tender and protective to his wife. He will be thoughtful of her in little matters and try to save her from all the petty annoyances and cares that he can.

But if a man puts his own comfort and convenience first and his sweetheart's last, if he won't put himself out to save her annoyance; if he breaks an engagement because he does not happen to feel like keeping it; if he won't even take the trouble to telephone to save her anxious waiting when he has to be late in keeping an appointment, and if he thinks all little courtesies and attentions are nonsense, you may be sure that after marriage he will make one of the neglected husbands who treat their wives as if they were pieces of household furniture, good only to make them comfortable.

Dear Miss Dix: I am very shy and worry about myself too much. My friends say a job is the thing for me but I just can't get one. Another thing I stay at home all the time. I just don't want to go anywhere. Everyone says I am nervous and would have lots of friends if I would only get out. My voice has a nasal sound and I have worried myself to death about it. What can I do about it? JUNE.

Answer: You certainly do worry about yourself too much. If you live near a Y. W. C. A., a school, or any other organization that gives a course in speech, that would be the best way to overcome your nasal tone and would probably clear up a lot of your self-consciousness.

You must get yourself out of the house as your first big step in conquering your shyness. You must do that yourself, no one can push you out. Get among your friends, try a little harder to find a job, or take a course in something that will give you confidence. It doesn't matter what — sewing, interior decoration, current history or literature — if it will get you among people and add a skill to your qualifications for a job.

Dear Miss Dix: Can you explain why people give big parties to the boys who are about to enter the army, and then, when they go to the railroad station to see them off, they weep over them? I like mothers, wives and girl friends have to be forcibly removed and have their arms pried from around the boys' necks as the train starts? I sent a boy, one of the finest in the war, but I sent him out remembering me as smiling. I cried plenty when I sent him, but I didn't do it when he could see. A LOVING MOTHER

Answer: Right you are, Mother. It is the woman like you who send their sons away to do their duty with a smile and a cheery word, who have raised the lads who are now heroes on the battle front today.

A mother can't think the boys, whose mothers can't think by their own and makes it easier for them to do their duty, do not know what World War is all about. They know that their very own is torn with anguish and her heart overflowing with love that she will not shed when they can see, but they think that if "Mother can take it they can." And they do.

The Enforcer Stars Bogart at Rialto

"The Enforcer," a real life drama starring Humphrey Bogart in the title role, comes to the Rialto screen on Sunday.

The United States Pictures Production, distributed by Warner Bros., is based on an actual series of crimes committed by a band of paid killers operating a nationwide network of death. How a fearless assistant district attorney, aided by a handful of strong-armed cops, traps the leaders, hitherto immune from the law through a series of high tip tips, forms the basis of what has been termed, in advance, one of the best in recent years.

In emphasizing accuracy throughout the entire production, Director Bretaigne Lord used outdoor location shots around the city of Los Angeles, covering the residential and shopping districts, the ominous underworld section and other outlying neighborhoods.

With Bogart taking up the side of the law after many wrongdoer roles, the others in the film were also selected apparently with an eye toward realism. Zero Mostel, a New York night club comic but heralded as one of the fine acting talents in Hollywood, plays a surviving hoodlum, instrumental in rounding up the mobsters. Ted de Corsia, who played as the "heavy" in "Three Secrets," and Everett Sloane, the sensitive Army doctor in "The Man," portray the murder syndicate's hatched man and gang chief, respectively.

Carrying the feminine appeal is lovely Patricia Joiner of California, a newcomer said to bear watching in did Gloria DeHaven, another film star native who made good on the glamor screen. It is Miss Joiner who is the target for the murder ring until law enforcement officer Bogart arrives on the scene.

DOROTHY DIX

Inconsiderate Beau

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have been going with a young man for almost a year. Am very much in love with him and he tells me he adores me, but he treats me in such a casual and inconsiderate way that I do not know what to think of it. He breaks engagements without any real excuse. Never tells me his appointments. Never tells me when he is going to be late, although he has a phone on his desk. He treats his own family the same way and tells me they don't mind, and that I am making a mountain out of a mole hill. My parents urge me to give him up, saying that if he shows so little consideration now, what will he do after we are married? What do you think?

I, D. J. M.

Answer: I think your young man is giving you a sample of the way he will treat his wife, and that you should be very sure that you like it before you undertake a life with him. Don't delude yourself with the false belief that marriage will work some sort of miracle in his disposition that will change him from a callously indifferent and selfish man to one who will be considerate and thoughtful of his wife.

He Won't Change

Nothing of the kind is going to happen. Marriage doesn't change a man. It only makes him more so and intensifies his characteristics. If a man is sensitive, understanding and chivalrous to his sweetheart, he will be tender and protective to his wife. He will be thoughtful of her in little matters and try to save her from all the petty annoyances and cares that he can.

But if a man puts his own comfort and convenience first and his sweetheart's last, if he won't put himself out to save her annoyance; if he breaks an engagement because he does not happen to feel like keeping it; if he won't even take the trouble to telephone to save her anxious waiting when he has to be late in keeping an appointment, and if he thinks all little courtesies and attentions are nonsense, you may be sure that after marriage he will make one of the neglected husbands who treat their wives as if they were pieces of household furniture, good only to make them comfortable.

Hearings Open on Possible Future of RFC

Washington, April 27. — (AP) — The senate banking committee opens public hearings today on the possible future of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC).

On one side the committee considered demands that congress abolish the much criticized agency and call a halt to direct government lending to private enterprise.

On the other, it faced pressure for new laws to install specific safeguards against political favoritism as a yardstick for deciding who should get loans.

Both sides wheeled up their big guns for the debate, which promises to be short but sharp, possibly winding up Tuesday.

Senator Fulbright (D-Ark.), head of a banking subcommittee which has clashed with the White House in denouncing what it called favoritism in RFC lending, was slated to testify against the abolition move.

Fulbright has introduced bills to keep the agency alive, but to break. The 120 will include two escort carriers, four cruisers, 33 destroyers, 15 submarines and 41 mine craft, patrol craft and auxiliaries.

Naval reservists who joined organized units before last Oct. 15 will be taken first. Others in any category needed in man demobilized ships will get orders, only when organized units are down to "the lowest practicable manning level."

Enlisted naval reservists will start getting out this July and be coming home in large numbers by October. About 77,000 will have packed their suitcases for home by July 1952. No plans for the release of organized reservists or of USNR officers have come out.

The marine corps has ordered up its entire organized reserve with the exception of ten air squadrons which it does not plan to call. Nor does it plan to call any more from its volunteer reserve, though some are already on orders to report.

Anticipating an increase in enlistments, the marine corps will start releasing reservists this June when about 9,000 get out. None will be on duty involuntarily by July 1952.

They have repeated their earlier success and have given the screen another delightful family comedy. We can't wait for the next installment.

Biggest Fish Didn't Win

Hot Springs, April 27 — (AP) — The biggest fish didn't win the Hot Springs fishing derby after all.

Bill Miller, president of the Lakes Hamilton and Cathering association, said yesterday that the $500 first prize awarded to Leonard Breakfield of Chicago had been returned by Breakfield and given to another contestant.

Breakfield was adjudged winner of the black bass division of the annual Hot Springs fishing derby with a four pound, seven ounce fish. Miller said Breakfield later

MacArthur Is Returned Home

San Francisco, Calif., April 26 — (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur (D) returned today to his home in San Francisco after a long absence. He was met at the airport by a large crowd of people, many of whom were waving American flags. MacArthur was seen in a car with his family as they drove through the city. He is expected to remain in San Francisco for some time before returning to his duties in the Pacific.

"I am not a candidate. If I were a candidate, I wouldn't have a chance. I enjoy being a United States senator. I want my contract as a senator extended by the voters in 1954." He said about the same thing in an address at Nashville's war memorial auditorium last night. He didn't think any southerner would ever be considered for the presidency.

According to the Book of Knowledge, the term "Ku Klux Klan" was first used by some of the northeastern Indians as a term to reproach people still farther north.

Says British Arms Program to Stand

London, April 25 — (AP) — Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison pledged today that Britain would not cut its standard of living before slashing its proposed rearmament program.

Morrison's statement, made in a speech here, came as the high command of the British Labor government crushed a leftwing rebellion over the rearmament program and the party pledged firm support to Prime Minister Aitken's policies.

The statement by Morrison, at a luncheon of the American Chamber of Commerce, was looked upon as Aitken's answer to the rebels, who had complained that the United States was dragging Britain into a ruinous expenditure of money. Morrison told his audience that the problem of raw materials for British home production, export and rearmament is causing "most serious anxiety."

About 444,000 acres of sweet potatoes are expected to be grown in U.S. farms in 1951.

Opposition to Parity Freeze

Washington, April 27 — (AP) — President Truman's proposal to freeze farm parity by the year 1955, a means of lightening food price controls, collided with a barrage of farm state opposition in congress today.

On the other hand, Senator Anderson (D-Mt.), former secretary of agriculture, declared the plan looks all right to him and "might be perfectly satisfactory to farmers."

From the protest corner, however...

Today the 'Great God of Nations' is pleading for unity of mind, for brotherly love between men and for peace on earth. Jesus the greatest of teachers presented to men truths, which were then as they are now, of great importance to all mankind. His utterances, without revision, are most pertinent to modern life and make universal appeal. In them are heights which no man has scaled; depths which no man has sounded; reaches of length and breadth which no man has explored. Universally the need for blessings from the great 'God of Nations' has never been so great. He commanded men to learn of Him and promised to show them the way.

Pastors, Priests and Rabbis are pooling their interests in an effort to challenge All Nations to an understanding of the term 'Peace.' Prayers from millions of earnest seeking, warm hearted, religious people, go up to the great 'God of Nations' every day for those men who are entrusted with our destinies.

Millions are now saying of Jesus: "There was the true light, even the light which lighteth every man, coming into the world." Whether judged by subject matter, the method of its presentation, or its effectiveness in influencing life... Jesus enjoys pre-eminence among teachers. If men would but seek out His will; if world leaders would but ask His guidance when difficult, international problems arise... then solving them would not be such a surprise, for in Him men of faith find all things possible.

Mac Free to Do As He Pleases Truman Says

Washington, April 26 — (AP) — President Truman said today will not "pull the strings" on Gen. Douglas MacArthur but will let him say what he pleases, when he pleases and where he pleases.

President told a news conference that under legislation enacted last year, the rank of five star general and admiral, he could pull the strings on MacArthur, but he does not propose to do so.

In response to a reporter's question as to whether he could "pull the strings" on the general, the President said MacArthur may go where he pleases and say what he likes say, now that he is back in the country.

The President was asked the status of Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, MacArthur's chief aide. He was told that Gen. Whitney had made a number of statements respecting the controversy.

Mr. Truman replied that seems to be press secretary a secretary to Gen. MacArthur, added there are a lot of things being said and he does not object to their being said.

Mr. Truman said that at MacArthur's request, he made Whitney a major general.

As for Whitney's status, the President suggested the question be put up to Secretary of Defense Marshall.

It was then that he said he had not, and did not intend to place any strings on Gen. MacArthur.

The President brought a gale of laughter when a reporter said Whitney had reported MacArthur didn't have the faintest idea who he was when he was relieved.

Everybody else knows why, the President said.

The President declined to confirm or deny a New York Times story last week concerning an administration document purporting to order Mr. Truman's conference on Wake Island with MacArthur last October.

A reporter noted this story had said MacArthur had apologized to the President for previous comments on the Formosa question.

The questioner asked how the happened to see a document copy in the hour in which Mr. Truman and MacArthur were also in a conference.

Mr. Truman wouldn't comment on whether there was an apology said he might have documented an account himself. But, he told reporters that he wanted to emphasize that he might say "Did Gen. MacArthur apologize to you, a reported pressed."

"Mr. Truman said he couldn't answer a question like that."

To Renovate Mac's Birthplace

Little Rock, April 27—(AP)—Little Rock's Civitan club is going to sponsor a nation-wide campaign to renovate the birthplace of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Work on the project has been begun by city workmen. But Mayor Sam Wassell says the city has only $500 of the $1,000 needed to complete the work.

Yesterday, city park and recreation Supt. W. K. Amos said, had received $200 to help finance the work. He said donations were received from Texas, Missouri, and Arkansas.

Air pressure which is 2.11 pounds per square foot at sea level is only 280 pounds per square foot at 30,000 feet.
